Introducing Gavin

Every time something gets pushed back in the construction process or a milestone is missed, the pressure is felt elsewhere. That's where someone like Gavin Evans can make all the difference to your project's success.

Gavin knows how to identify and resolve on-site issues or delays to the construction sequence, without fuss and in his inimitable, no-nonsense way. Straightforward, fair, honest and reliable, Gavin is passionate about delivering exceptional quality, compliance and great finishes on all his projects.

Gavin was a tradesman for 10 years before completing a degree in Construction Management and transitioning into project management. He combines grassroots construction knowledge, a strong understanding of your sector and high-level commercial acumen.

His ability to communicate with all stakeholders, builders and trades across both the construction and design phases of a project is outstanding. Gavin is your bridge between on-site and commercial imperatives.
